Claims

The invention claimed is:

1. A method for providing reliability in a message passing data processing system employing communications adapters, said method comprising the steps of:

designating a first communications adapter connected to a data processing node as a master adapter; designating at least one other communications adapter connected to said data processing node as a slave adapter; and upon detection of failure within said master adapter, assigning its operations to said slave adapter.